

HALTS FUREY TRIAL BECAUSE JURORS KNOW COUNSEL

Judge Rosalsky Orders New
Panel in Case of Bond
Theft Suspect.

The discovery to-day that two jurors in the trial of Edward H. Furey, alias "Big Ed," accused of attempted extortion and also under indictment in connection with the Wall Street bond thefts, were acquainted with Furey's counsel, Randolph Newman, brought the trial to an abrupt termination in General Sessions.

Judge Rosalsky, obviously displeased, ordered that another jury be impaneled at once. Furey, who has been in the Tombs for nearly nine months, exclaimed to a voice outside all over the court, "Well, what the—do you know about that?" Back to the Tombs for me!

When Newman sought to extenuate his position Judge Rosalsky ordered him away from the bench.

The two jurors who admitted knowing Newman were Joseph H. Gordon of No. 287 Broadway and Jay W. Behan of No. 309 West 128th Street. The disclosures caused William J. Fallon, associated with Newman as counsel to Furey, to ask that a mistrial be called, to which Judge Rosalsky agreed. Newman told the court that he had paid little attention to the jury when they were called yesterday and Mr. Dooling admitted that he might have failed to ask them whether they were acquainted with counsel on either side.

Furey is accused of attempted extortion of $5,000 from Charles G. A. Pritch under threat of exposing him as owner of a steamer, Oceanic, in Montreal, who caused her to be burned two years ago to collect insurance.

Said S. Myers, attorney for the National Surety Company, declared to-day that the decision yesterday of the United States Supreme Court did not free "Nicky" Anstey, as his counsel maintained, through putting up bail. It meant, Mr. Myers added, that Anstey will be brought back from Washington and the suit of habeas corpus will be argued all over again. Anstey being required to remain in jail.

The National Surety Company to-day offered a reward of $5,000 for the arrest and conviction of "Nicky" Anstey, who is involved in the bond thefts.

Harding Gauvain, Born at Sea

Among the 325 passengers who arrived here to-day on the Scandinavian line steamer Helle Olav was one whose name was not on the original list. He was born on election day and the 326 adult passengers, put in a vote, disallowed the question of naming him after the ship or after President-elect Harding. The steamer, Capt. L. Holst, past the departing vote and the baby was named Olav Warren Harding Gauvain.

Hennric Satonoff, a Russian morgan soprano, who came here to sing in opera, told of escaping to Germany from Moscow after the Bolsheviks had seized her father's estate and held the family in bondage.

"Crime is increasing in Russia and morals are at a discount," she said.

State Department Acts to Keep Soviet Agents Out of U. S.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Promulgation measures have been taken by the State Department to block what American diplomatic agents in Europe have characterized as determined efforts of Russian Soviet agents to send "missionaries" and agitators to the United States.

Consuls at European ports, it was said, at the department to-day have been instructed to view the passports of only persons about whose intentions there exists no shadow of doubt.

CITY SEEKS PERMIT FOR NEW PIER LINE

Would Extend 100 Feet in North
River From Pier 72nd Street.

President of the Board of Avenue and River Improvement (Hudson) returned to-day from Washington after a conference with Secretary of War Baker on the city's plan to extend the pier line 100 feet into the North River between Pier 72 and 73rd Street.

It is necessary to obtain Federal permission for such an extension and south of Pier 72nd Street has already been granted. At the Chelsea Park a temporary 100-foot extension has been permitted and this will be revoked unless the city can convince the War Department that the extension is not a menace to navigation. The testimony of ship captains and navigators is expected to convince the department of the practicality of the plan.

Secretary Baker, however, opposed the city's request, and the reason, according to Mr. La Guardia, is that Secretary Baker estimated it had no objection to granting the city's request, but that he intends to first make a personal inspection of the water front.

When arrested, it is alleged, he had a bundle of fur stoles from the apartment of Mrs. Henry Feldman, No. 35 Marcy Avenue, and a long knife with which he is accused of having opened a window to gain entrance. He said the furs were "just a little present for mother."

Joseph Stevenson, of No. 382 Halsey Street, Brooklyn, who served with the United States Flying Service overseas, was held in $5,000 bail to-day in New Jersey Avenue Court, Brooklyn, on the charge of bigamy.

The complaint was made by Frances Brady Stevenson, of No. 1114 Foster Avenue, Brooklyn, who is now said to be in Lincoln Heights Hospital suffering from shock. It was said she received a telephone message from Stevenson that their marriage was "all off" and that he was bound by a previous marriage. She was a widow when she and Stevenson were married Oct. 28.

Mrs. Ellen Gerhardt Stevenson, of No. 234 Woodbine Street, said to be the first wife, called at the jail this morning and left cigarettes and sandwiches for the prisoner. She said she and Stevenson have a four-year-old daughter.

$7,500 TO PAY OFF MORTGAGE A GIFT

So Rules Court in Action Brought by Woman of 76 Against Her Woman Friend.

Mrs. Jennie Hannah of No. 451 Fourth Avenue, Brooklyn, was sued for the recovery of $7,500 by Miss Maria Wall, seventy-six years old, who had lived with Mrs. Hannah for many years at the Fourth Avenue address. In May, 1912, a mortgage for $1,500 (all due, and when Mrs. Hannah was unable to pay it Miss Wall furnished the money. The mortgage was paid on July 12, 1913. Later Mrs. Hannah's son John was married and brought his wife to his mother's house to live. Miss Wall objected and left, demanding the repayment of the $7,500. She claimed that Mrs. Hannah had promised to assign the mortgage to her and had failed to do so.

Justice Van Sice, before whom the suit was tried, held that the $7,500 was a gift. He also held that in consideration for it Mrs. Hannah had promised to pay Miss Wall $25 a month for life, and that she must pay.
